DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over European patent 608430 cited by applicant in IDS dated October 27, 2003.
- 3. EP'430 in claim 14 on page 24 discloses a cold rolled steel sheet having an analogous alloy composition, and is processed in substantially the same manner as claimed by applicant. Note EP'430 in claim 14 teaches hot rolling with a finishing temperature of at least Ar3-100C (overlaps claimed temperature of 800C or more), coiling at 800C or less (same as claimed coiling temperature of 800C or less), cold rolling, and annealing at ferrite/austenite transformation point to Ac3 (within claimed ferrite-austenite 2-phase region which is equivalent to Ac1 to Ac3 points). Moreover, note the EP'430 process in Example 5 on page 20 further teaches after annealing, to cool at an average rate of 60C/sec (within the claimed range of 10 to 300c/sec).
- 4. Since the steps of prior art and present invention process are essentially the same with overlapping temperature and cooling rate ranges, and the alloy composition has the same constituents with overlapping wt% ranges, then a prima facie case of obviousness is established because it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to select the claimed limitation ranges from the broader disclosure of the prior art because the prior art has the same utility (cold rolled steel sheet for automobile structural parts) and similar properties of high strength and r-value.

5. With respect to claim 20, EP'430 in claim 14 on page 24 discloses a steel composition containing small amounts of Cr. B, and Ti.
